Petro-Canada, ranchers reach agreement

By Steve Fletcher
Petro-Canada has worked out an agreement with area landowners that should avoid a public hearing over plans to expand a Brazeau sour-gas plant.

The two groups met on four different occasions before an agreement was reached March 19. Petro-Canada spokesman George Collins said at an open house held last week to inform the public on the company's plans to increase the size of its plant, located 23 kms southwest of Cynithia.

Ranchers, now represented through the newly-formed Pembina Agricultural Protection Association, had opposed the expansion because of concerns they had about the environmental effects of the increased emissions.

The project, estimated to cost Petro-Canada $89 million, must still obtain approval from the ERCB and Alberta Environment.

Collins said the agreement will see his company working with the landowners in four specific areas:

- An expansion of its existing soil survey program.
- The lending of support to the ranchers' discussions with Alberta Agriculture over the need for research in livestock production in areas with sour-gas activity.

- A proposal to monitor air quality within the immediate Drayton Valley region.

- Have the landowners participate in some extent in the coordinating of the above activities.

"We really want to make this a mutual exchange program," said Collins.

Petro-Canada hopes to begin construction of the new facility by August, and expects completion of the project to take just over one year.

MLA unhappy, ratepayers plan next move

The Tomahawk Ratepayers Association is already plotting their next move.

Association president Wayne Gent says a publicity brochure is being prepared for the leaders of the opposition and members of the press gallery.

"The battle's not over pending a reply from Premier Getty," Gent said last Tuesday.

Gent was also waiting for a reply from the premier regarding the telegram the association had sent criticizing MLA Shirley Cripps.

"We're going to continue. We won't let it die," he told The Western Review.

The MLA told The Western Review last Tuesday morning that she had received a copy of the telegram from the premier's office and was asked to respond.

She also expressed her dissatisfaction with a front page story in last week's paper, which revealed the contents of Tomahawk's letter to the premier.

Decision pending

Municipal Affairs Minister Dennis Anderson is expected to make a decision on the final boundaries of Improvement District 222 by the end of April.

Wayne Gent, president of the Tomahawk Ratepayers Association told The Western Review he talked with the minister's office last Thursday morning.

Along with the final decision the MLA would only say it would be soon.

the minister is expected to leave the door open for possible annexation.

"We don't know if the two blocks south of Highway 624 will be in or out. I don't think there will be another vote," Gent said.

However, Gent says that if the two blocks want to join the County of Parkland, he's hoping that annexation will be possible.

Dave Boultier has submitted his resignation as vice-president of the Drayton Valley golf club.

There's a good chance the cost of drinks at the golf course bar will increase.

The club's annual meeting last week heard the bar realized a $55,500 profit this past year, down from the previous year's $30,702.

There hasn't been an increase in the cost of drinks for two years.

The town is expected to send a representative to the Tlahti board of directors meeting in May.

The weekend meeting to make a final decision on the town's request to join the Rivergate Regional Association for the Milk River group.

Business at the new office located at Yellowknife Mall has been slow.

Minister Le-Roy Robb says the sale of stamps, periodicals and other items at the most frequent time of the year, which opens in September of last year, Robb also noted that another sub point of the sale may be opening a new, but he didn't indicate when or where.

The Drayton Valley department had a busy day on Sunday with fire calls coming in at virtually the same time.

The department was called to a truck fire in town in the early afternoon. The fire was extinguished by the vehicle, a station, was a write-off.

Firefighters were alerted to Grass Fire near Rocky Rapids. The blaze was difficult to contain because of high winds and firefighters were at the scene for about three hours.

Town council agreed week to continue to be in the building services provided by the R.C.

External Affairs Minister and Yellowknife P.J. Clark is slated to be in town on April 14.

Cost Construction wants to purchase more in the northwest area.

Pembina Institute for Appropriate Development Strengthening peace education profile...

By Steve Fletcher

The Pembina Institute for Appropriate Development, a Drayton Valley-based organization that tackles environment and peace issues, has quietly risen to the national forefront. Indeed, the institute is probably better known in Ottawa circles than it is locally.

One of the chief reasons behind this has been the institute's aggressive push to strengthen the teaching of peace education in classrooms throughout Canada.

"Students have to become aware of a range of strategies for achieving a sustainable and just peace," says Rob Macintosh, a teacher and one of the founders of the organization.

The institute was incorporated in 1985, following nearly two years of high profile environmental lobbying by Macintosh and others during the inquiry into the 1982 Lodgepole blowout.

"We had some concerns over the way it was handled," says Macintosh of the blowout aftermath. The drawn out investigation into the affair often put the school teacher and others on the front pages of newspapers throughout the province.

The formation of the Pembina Institute following the inquiry was really an amalgamation of individuals who realized they had a common interest in pursuing the broader issues of the environment, the nuclear threat, peace and security, Macintosh pointed out.

"We incorporated and started to get a little more serious about what we were doing."

The group has become extremely serious about peace education.

One of the first tangible results of the institute was the compiling of The Canadian Peace Educators Directory - a 66-page compendium of peace-education groups across Canada.

The institute understood early the value of networking - a "strength through numbers" idealism that promotes the linkage of groups with similar interests.

Networking has been so successful that Macintosh and the institute have put together other directories involving an assortment of issues.

"Why re-invent the wheel?" noted Macintosh, explaining that peace education was being taught in classrooms across the country, yet there was little being done about examining common goals or objectives.

This decade led the institute to push ahead with strengthening the profile of peace education through the publishing of a quarterly magazine - Peace Education News.

Edited by Macintosh and Wally Heinrichs, the magazine averages 60 pages and has an international mailing list of about 2,000.

'It's not enough to vote every four years...'

Macintosh says it's considered among peace educators as the national journal on the topic.

Heinrichs, also a school teacher, pointed out the magazine, which was funded initially by the Institute for International Peace and Security, helped to "establish our credibility" within the peace-education community.

He added that the feedback was "fairly overwhelming."

Further to this, the Pembina Institute has helped to solidify its position among peace activists and educators through the Prairie Network News, a quarterly magazine published in Edmonton that is sponsored by Pembina and five other organizations.

PNNI delves into the broader issues surrounding the environment, peace and Third World development, which are "all inter-related," says Macintosh.

Holding workshops on peace and disarmament has been an offshoot that has arisen from the institute's increased profile among peace groups.

Both Heinrichs and Macintosh believe the Pembina Institute's success exemplifies the effect all citizens can, or should, have on the important issues of the day.

"It's not enough to vote every four years and then delegate your responsibilities to some expert politician," maintains Macintosh.

They say living in a small town has never deterred them from dealing with the bigger issues.

"Without over-stating it, I think the projects themselves show that in a town like Drayton Valley you can still have a considerable impact," says Heinrichs.

Town accepts bylaw

Town council passed its new business license bylaw last week, despite continued opposition from Councillor Dave Lundberg.

The bylaw went through on a 4-1 vote.

Lundberg told council he chose to vote against the bylaw because he found it "too restrictive."

The councillor opposed the bylaw during first and second readings, saying he felt it encroached on the rights of those wishing to operate businesses from their homes. The new bylaw takes effect January 1, 1989.

Chance to win car during promotion

The place to shop is in Drayton Valley. We like to think that's often the case, but it's especially true now, in light of the Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce new car give-away shopping promotion.

The 20-week promotion, that starts this month, works this way.

All shoppers at participating stores will be eligible to drop their name in a ballot box. At the end of each week, all the ballots will be placed in one box, and a single ballot will be drawn.

The weekly winner will be given a token key which will go into a special drum. At the end of the campaign, one of the 20 keys will be drawn.

The owner of the winning key will get their choice of one of four new vehicles, valued between $11,000 and $13,000.

Don Regenwetter, chairman for the project, maintains the whole promotion is about changing attitudes.

"We've got to break the out-of-town shopping habit," Regenwetter says.

Besides keeping local and area shoppers at home during the 20-week campaign, Regenwetter believes that the chance to win a car will attract consumers from other areas to our town.

The chamber of commerce is to be commended for this promotion. It appears to be just what the doctor ordered for local businesses.

If shoppers ever had a desire to shop in Drayton Valley, it's now.

Open house tomorrow

Now's your chance to ask...

If you ever had a question about the town's new $1.4 million arena or their decision to spend $1.1 million to convert the Civic Arena into an administration building...you'll get your chance to ask it tomorrow (Wednesday) night.

Between 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. town council is hosting an open house at the Legion as part of Municipal Involvement Week.

Models of both projects will be on display. Council will also use the occasion to present their athletic achievement awards.

Last year's Municipal Involvement Week open house was a FLOP. Winners of the athletic awards came, were presented with a pin and certificate, and left.

But with a new arena and town office/library/fire hall on the drafting board, it is hoped that local residents will take enough of an interest to come out and look, and ask questions of our town fathers.

You might ask council about funding for the two projects. Other than the sale of the library, money from any outside sources other than the town, has not been confirmed.

The town is expected to front a lot of the costs. How much? Where is the money coming from? If so much money is being spent on these two projects, what other work will suffer as a result? And, will it affect our taxes. If not this year, then next year, or the year after?

You might even ask our town fathers why we are just replacing the old arena with a new structure. It certainly won't help the shortage of ice problems that ice users have experienced.

It's not very often that council makes themselves available to the people who elected them. Don't pass up the opportunity to get some answers to any questions on any subject you may have.

Income tax tips hold inaccurate details...

Dear Editor,

In regards to your article of March 15 "Income Tax '87 Tips," some of the information printed is rather inaccurate. The information in question is that which dealt with the deductibility of support payments made to a former common-law spouse.

The article leaves the impression these payments in most cases are deductible. In fact, in most cases, support payments made to a former common-law spouse will not be deductible.

The Income Tax Act paragraph 60(c) and 60(b) specifies these payments must have been made to a former spouse. A party to a common-law relationship does not qualify as a former spouse in effect, the Income Tax Act does not recognize common-law relationships.

Under paragraph 60(c.1) the payments to a former common-law spouse will be deductible if they are paid to an individual who is described under provincial laws which recognize support obligation with respect to the breakdown of common-law relationship.

As yet, the only provincial law which recognizes these "described individuals" is the Ontario Family Law Reform Act, subclause 14B(3).

Therefore, support payment to former common-law spouses are not deductible, unless the support agreement was made under the Ontario Family Law Reform Act. Keeping in mind that regardless of which province an individual resided in, if the support agreement was made under the Ontario Family Law Reform Act, the payments will be deductible for the payer and taxable for the recipient.

I hope this provides a more accurate and clear understanding of these matters for your readers. More information can be found in Revenue Canada Taxation in Interpretation Bulletin 118R2.

Trustees deal with new budget

Leduc County school trustees are currently working on the 1986-87 board of education budget. School budgets from all jurisdictions must be submitted to Alberta Education by the end of April.

"The committee has reviewed revenues and done preliminary work on expenditures," said deputy county manager Gordon Handke. With hard numbers in place for revenues, members of the committee will work at evaluating expenditures, he said.

In March 1987, county school trustees approved a budget calling for an increase of seven per cent in the 1988 supplementary requisition (school taxes) levied against all municipalities in the county.

To tackle a revenue shortfall brought on by fall-ling government revenue, the county board raised taxes and cut 6.5 teaching positions across the county. Three teaching positions were added at Beaumont to cope with an enrolment increase of 90 students.

The county school board uses a budget based on the school year while municipal administrations use a calendar year budget.

What's your view?

The Tomahawk Ratepayers Association have sent a telegram to Premier Getty criticizing Drayton Valley MLA Shirley Gripps.

And, five directors from Joe Clark's Yellowhead association riding have defected to the Reform Party expressing their dissatisfaction with the treatment of Western Canada by the federal government and Clark's failure to improve things in the area.

What do you think of the job being done by our MLA and MP?

Council gives go-ahead to controversial rezoning

By Steve Fletcher
Town council voted narrowly to agree to the rezoning of a residential lot that neighborhood residents had been fighting to stop.

In a 3-2 vote, council gave third reading to a rezoning proposal aimed at building a duplex on a vacant lot near the Thrift Shop.

Residents signed a petition in attempt to halt the project, saying parking is already a problem in the area when the Thrift Shop is open. They also feel a duplex will lower the property value of adjacent lots.

In supporting the rezoning, councillor Charlie Miner said concerns about parking were unsubstantiated.

The agreement, carried last week by town council, will see an overall payroll increase of about three per cent, said town manager Manny Deol.

Mayor Bob Mayhew said in an interview that negotiations for a new contract were requested by council.

The contract takes went smoothly and took about three hours to complete, Deol said.

"As required it provides for off-street parking for two vehicles for both living units in the duplex," he said.

Miner added that if the Thrift Shop is a problem, then residents should address their concerns to that outlet.

Miner said he had discussed concerns about a decline in property values with real estate professionals and was told they were not valid.

Councillor Dave Lundberg opposed the rezoning, saying all residents' concerns should be dealt with prior to acceptance by council.

Mayor Bob Mayhew also voted against the rezoning.

"I really don't like to see a building fronting an alley...it's not in the order of development with the rest of the town."

Resident Gene Harris, who organized the petition, was upset council agreed to the rezoning. He plans to appeal construction of the duplex when it comes before the town for a development permit.

Beehive Workshop

Budget looks brighter

By Steve Fletcher

The Beehive Workshop should have a balanced budget — if not a slight surplus — this year, says executive director Andy Dornan.

Over the last 12 months "the whole operation has, without a doubt, turned around full circle," he said.

The workshop recorded a deficit in excess of $40,000 last year.

Dornan said the reason for the turnaround has been the implementation of "sound management practices."

A major crackdown on budget spending has occurred over the past 12 months, he noted, adding that both administration and the board of directors came to realize they had to come to grips "with the economic realities of the day."

Dornan admitted the streamlining required some cutbacks in staff, but maintained that "program and staff development has not suffered for that — if anything, client development has improved."

The Beehive now has a staff of 20 full-time equivalents.

Dornan said recent problems regarding staff turnover have now stabilized.

Employees "have developed good working relationships with the community," he noted.

Changes are also being planned in the general operation of the facility, with a name change and a new slogan high on the list.

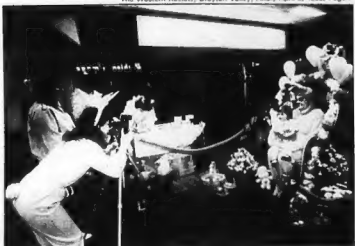

"We're Part of It All" was proclaimed the official slogan for the workshop, Dornan said the phrase depicts the Beehive's community focus.

A logo was also designed. Both came about through an inter-office contest.

The facility also plans on changing its name to Beehive Enterprises, a term that will better define its operations.

Dornan said he's taken an optimistic view of the financial future of the organization, noting that Alberta Social Services will not be cutting back on grants over the coming year.

"We're looking to '88 and '89 with an attitude of hope."

Consortium study reveals educational needs in area

By Steve Fletcher

A comprehensive examination of educational needs in the area will aid the Pembina Consortium to plan future programs, says executive director Joe MacLellan.

The study, released last week after six months of research, reveals the educational priorities of the public, of businesses and of high school students in Drayton Valley, Whitecourt and Rocky Mountain House.

"It's the most detailed study we have ever done," said MacLellan.

The report was compiled by five people worked on the project intermittently over six months. The study was part of a jobcreation program sponsored by Employment and Immigration Canada.

"We had good people working on it," MacLellan noted. "We're quite pleased with the finished product."

The report was introduced to board directors at a meeting last week.

Conducted mainly by telephone, the study contacted about 3,000 area residents, 200 businesses and 160 high school students.

MacLellan said he was surprised by the priority placed on management and computer courses by those who answered the survey questionnaire.

A full one-quarter of all respondents said their most preferred courses were business or computer related.

Not surprisingly, the Pembina Consortium has a waiting list of more than 200 for computer training.

The survey also showed that nearly 50 per cent of all business would either subsidize or provide study time for employees wishing to upgrade themselves.

The most common obstacle for attending educational programs was family responsibilities, the report stated.

MacLellan said all statistics will be placed on computer to allow for regular updating.

Consortium gets OK from gov't

The Pembina Consortium has received approval from Alberta Advanced Education to proceed with plans to acquire the town of fire.

Advanced Education Minister Dave Russell, in a letter to the consortium, gave approval to use funds from capital reserves to obtain the town office.

Consortium executive director Joe MacLellan said his board and the town are currently negotiating.

He said the consortium plans on remaining at its current location until the lease expires next year.

The consortium has about $300,000 in its reserves, most of which has been there since its inception in 1981, MacLellan added.

Currently, the town has no other bids to purchase its office. The town is moving to a new administration complex which will be located on the site of the present arena.

22 years

Out with the old...in with the new

The curtain comes down this Sunday at the Centennial Civic Arena.

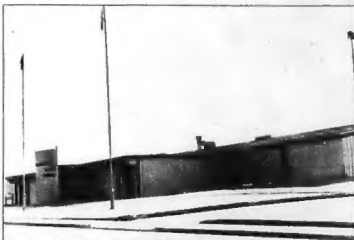

The sports facility, built in 1965 as a centennial project will close after the weekend to make way for the town's new multi-purpose administration complex.

Plans for the Civic Arena will see the entire building levelled, except for the steel structure. When completed, the administration complex will house the town offices, library and fire hall.

The Centennial Civic Centre and Arena was originally built for $225,000. The town contributed $100,000 toward the cost with Improvement District 77 adding $70,000. Another $34,000 was raised through donations and a $21,258 centennial grant was used.

A contract in the amount of $128,859 was awarded to Jirhwa and Root Ltd. on June 22, 1966. It was the lowest of five bids.

The contract did not include the cost of painting, flooring, electrical, mechanical, the steel structure, ice plant, water and sewer services or engineering fees.

The sod turning for the new facility was held June 28 with the late Howard Pickup. Drayton Valley's mayor, and M.L.A. Mrs. C.R. Wood participating.

Bill Gadsby, a defenceman with the NHL

Detroit Red Wings was a guest speaker at the sod turning. Lunch followed in the Cardium Room at the Drayton Valley Hotel.

In October of 1966 the recreation board set the public skating rates. The adult fee was 50 cents and students paid 25 cents. An adult season ticket was worth 38 while students paid $4.50 and children $3. A family season ticket was $16.

The ice was installed in the Centennial Civic Arena on Dec. 1, 1966 and the official opening was held in May of '67, during the Voyageur Canoe Race.

A highlight of the official opening was the appearance of Bobby Gimby, of national radio fame. More than 2,000 people attended.

The first game according to available records in the new arena saw the Drayton Valley Rebels down the Edison Commodores 14-3. The Rebels went on to win both the North West Hockey League regular season and playoff championship that winter.

A combined bantam B and C hockey tournament will be held at the arena this weekend...marking an end of the building's 22-year history.

Drayton Valley golf club

Membership / green fees to increase

By Frank Ryan

It will cost more money to play golf in Drayton Valley this summer.

Both membership and green fees have been increased.

And, the 76 golfers who attended the club's annual meeting last Tuesday also heard the new nine holes will not be ready this year.

The family membership will jump $70 to $510 while men and women will pay $250 which is a $30 hike. The rate for juniors remains at $80 for a year.

Green fees have been increased by $1 for both weekday and weekend play.

Archie Hood, who has been re-elected president of the club, informed the membership the season will start on the existing nine holes.

There's a possibility that seven new holes will be ready by July 1.

The executive should know in two weeks if they are going to get $70,000 through a job creation program. If that money is forthcoming, every effort will be made to finish the new nine holes this year.

Meanwhile, the membership heard that $54,000 has already been spent on the expansion and another $187,000 will be needed to upgrade the existing nine holes.

"I recommend that we don't borrow more money,"

Hood said.

Hold the line. Pay off the interest. Do it the following year," he added.

At the present time the club is paying $35,000 per year in interest on a $404,000 loan.

The club collected $100,942 in membership fees last year along with $50,226 in green fees. Their bar also turned a $25,500 profit.

Plans were announced for a new junior program. It is hoped the program will operate on Saturday, twice a month, during the golf season.

Vi Helm was appointed to a one-year term as secretary and Jim Janzen was elected as treasurer for the same length of time. Hood was returned as president at a directors meeting that followed the general membership gathering. And, Ron Nikiforuk was elected vice-president.

Must-win situation

DV Meter wins tourney

Earlier this year, Whitecourt came to the Drayton Valley Atom tournament and won first place.

DV Meter journeyed to Whitecourt on the March 19 weekend and returned the favor.

DV Meter's first game of the tournament got off to a shaky start when the team was defeated 11-5 against Hinton. This was the team they recently eliminated from the provincials.

Further round-robin action resulted in a must-win situation for DV Meter in a game against Stettler.

It was calculated that DV Meter would have to score seven goals against Stettler to edge Whitecourt out of the final.

This information was relayed to the team, which went on to beat Stettler 7-5.

DV Meter romped to a 11-3 win over Hinton in the final game.

Sports roundup

Director leaves

Donna Howatson has left her job as aquatics supervisor with the City of Leduc for Europe where she will participate in a cycling trip for seven months.

Spence Grace wins ringette

The junior B Grove Legionnaires went undefeated in five games recently to capture the provincial ringette crown.

Deciding game

The Grande Prairie North Stars host the Prince George Spruce Kings tonight (Tuesday) in the seventh and deciding game of the Peace Cariboo Junior Hockey final. The North Stars tied the series with a 3-2 overtime win Saturday.

Darren Fedorus and Trent Pankewicz of Drayton Valley are members of the North Stars.

Prentice elected league president

Forty teams and upwards of 600 players are expected to play slow pitch in town this summer.

Lawyer Marty Prentice has been elected president of the league. He will be assisted by secretary-Amber Wickstrom, treasurer Garry Janzen and seven directors.

League play is expected to start May 2.

On Thursday night three league representatives will attend the town's ball user meeting. One of their concerns will be enough diamonds to accommodate their league, and they are expected to ask some questions about the estimated $2100 they will be paying the town in user fees.

The new executive has been busy revamping some of the rules and drawing up a tentative schedule.

One major rule change this year will see four women on a team, an increase of one over last year.

The league plans to operate with two schedules again this year. The first one runs for the months of May and June, then the teams are shuffled depending on their performances. Into a schedule for July and August.

Minor soccer registrations

'Don't have to know a lot to play...'

A minor soccer meeting and registration will be held Monday, April 11 at 7 p.m. in the Scout Hall.

Minor soccer is available to both boys and girls between the ages of five and 16. Last year 186 players made up the local minor soccer program.

Parents and other interested adults are urged to sign up as coaches.

"You don't have to know a lot about soccer," Simon Kelly says.

Kelly, the outstanding goalkeeper with Drayton Valley United (formerly Cesar's) for many years, won't have the time to contribute to minor soccer like he has in the past 10 years.

"I want to see it go and will be involved at the start. But, it's time to move on," he admits.

Kelly plans to spend more time with the men's recreation league this summer. That league is expected to expand from eight teams to 12.

There's also a chance Drayton United won't field a squad this summer and the same may hold true for several other teams in the Central Alberta Rural Towns League. The local team has lost several players while teams such as Edson and Whitecourt have lost key per-sonel.

Chris Kelly, who led the league in scoring the past two summers has already indicated he plans to play in the recreation league.

For more information on minor soccer call Bill Boos at 542-2942.

Former swim coach to climb McKinley

A former Drayton Valley resident is one of two Alberta mountaineers who have started the climb to the summit of Mt. McKinley.

Drayton Valley's Panola and Jerry O'Brien of Calgary, left March 30 for North America's highest point. The summit of Mt. McKinley lies 20,320 feet above sea level and reaching it is considered a major mountaineering achievement.

Both men have extensive international mountain climbing experience.

Expedition leader Vogel was coach of the Drayton Valley Neptune swim club in 1976 and '77 and also worked at the swimming pool as assistant manager. He recently returned from two years of travelling and climbing in New Zealand, Nepal and Japan.

The major objectives of the climbers is to reach the summit via the less technical but potentially serious West Buttress route, to test photographic equipment and to develop outdoor equipment.

The two mountaineers are prepared to camp on the mountain for 25 days where winds up to 100 mph and temperatures of -40 can be expected.

New manager/coachLocal players vying for spot on Team Alberta roster

Seven Drayton Valley baseball players have set their sights on playing with Team Alberta.

Tony Kopp, Cory and Kevin Dusterhoft, Amanda and Carlos Cortwright, Gerry Bartlett and Joey Hutzler worked out every Saturday during the winter months at the Kinsmen Field House in Edmonton.

The program the players participated in was part of an extensive scout and train program introduced by Baseball Alberta.

It is part of a program to breathe new life back into the junior baseball program in the province.

The changes were made following Team Alberta's fourth place showing at the four team Western Canada junior tournament last year and their seventh-place finish at the 1985 Canada Games.

Team rosters will be selected during the next two months. This summer, although junior age, the team will play in the senior Sunburst Baseball League.

In preparation and to expose the team to the calibre of competition they may expect in '89, Team Alberta is hosting a major junior tournament July 8-16 at John Duesy Park. Province at teams from the four western provinces and a junior college team from California will participate.

There's also a new face behind Team Alberta's bench. Ron Betts has replaced Ray Brown as manager/coach of the team.

Betts brings with him an impressive record of playing, coaching, instructing and work in baseball and physical education fields. His minor playing days were with the Quebec elite program

Drayton gymnastic team places third overall...

By Linda Mackinnon
Six girls from the Drayton Valley Gymnastics Club performed very well recently at a meet in Stony Plain.

Nicki Reich, Sarah Mackinnon, Janice Caprole,

Amanda Lahr, Alison, Jennifer Zawiezwicz and Jill Simants are to be commended on their fine representation of the Drayton Valley club.

Drayton Valley placed third in overall standing. Other clubs participating in cluded St. Albert, Fort Saskatchewan, Devon, Stony Plain and Warburg. Each club was represented by a team of six gymnasts.

In the nine years and under category, Nicki Reich placed first in floor routine and fourth on beam. Sarah Mackinnon placed fifth on floor routine and sixth on beam. Janice Caprole placed third on bars and sixth on floor routine. Caprole was fourth overall in this category and Mackinnon was fifth overall. In the 10-years and over division, Jennifer Zawiezwicz was first on bars. Jill Simants placed sixth for floor routine and second on beam. She also placed as fifth overall gymnast in this category.

Atoms take provincials

The Warburg Atom D team captured the provincial championships at a recent tournament in Vancouver.

The team, the Warburg Flyers, went into the finals with a 111 record in the tourney.

The Flyers beat Irma, a team that went unbeaten in the preliminaries, 3-1 to take the championship.

Coach Lorne Krukowski

said the team won the final through "pure hard work."

He said their whole success in the tourney was the result of a team effort.

Krukowski added the Flyers are the first team from the Warburg area ever to win a provincial hockey tournament.

New committee is formed

The Drayton Valley and District Chamber of Commerce has formed a new committee to look into local environmental issues.

Neil Harskamp, of Nee H Trucking Ltd., has been named chairman of the new committee.

Women journalists as guests at multiple sclerosis fund raiser

A Donahue style show featuring women journalists will be the first major fund raiser for the Drayton Valley Multiple Sclerosis chapter.

Gent said Mrs Wolf and a public relations officer will also be attending.

The local MS chapter was formed last November. Gent noted that it will become the first chapter in Alberta to campaign door to door for funds next month.

About 50,000 Canadians suffer from MS, a disease which attacks the central nervous system.

The fund raiser takes place Saturday at the Legion Hall and will include the following celebrities: Edmonton Sun columnist Donna Marie Artuso, ITV newscaster Lester McDonald, and CBC Monday Magazine host Lee McKenzie.

Gent is also working to have a disc jockey from one of the Edmonton radio stations at the event to feed a 10-minute live broadcast of the show back to Edmonton.

It's all designed to give something back to those who donate, he said.

MS chapter president Wayne Gent says he will be playing the role of Phil Donahue at the event.

I may not be as good as he is, but I'm younger and don't cost anything, he quipped.

Gent added it will be his job to field questions from the audience for the guests, which will probably deal with general topics about each participant's career in journalism.

A wine-tasting display, provided by Andrew Wolf Wine Cellars of Stony Plain, will get the event off and rolling at 1 p.m.

Moore guest speaker

The acquisition of Dome Petroleum by Amoco will be the main course on next Thursday's (April 14) Chamber of Commerce supper meeting.

Bernard Moore, vice president of production with Amoco, will be guest speaker.

The evening gets under way at 6 p.m. and includes supper at 7 p.m. and Moore's presentation at 8 p.m.

The event will be held in the Elks Hall. For tickets call the chamber office at 542-7578.

In his current position with Amoco, Moore has had direct involvement in Amoco Canada's acquisition of Dome Petroleum. The acquisition was first announced April 18, 1987 and now, a year later, it is in the final stages of consummation.

The acquisition of Dome will have a positive effect on the energy industry as the new combined company invests billions of dollars over the next several years. Drayton Valley will be a significant beneficiary of the acquisition.

Moore will be addressing the challenges facing Amoco Canada during the final stages of the acquisition and will also address the new challenges the company will confront.

The Elks Hall can only accommodate 200 for this supper meeting. So if you plan on attending, confirm your tickets today.

Bulls on display

Bulls and heifers were the focus of all the attention at the recent annual sale at Sekura

Auctions, held March 19 before a near full house.

Promotional video

A new video can be seen on Channel 10 featuring the activities of the Elks and Royal Purple clubs.

This new video is a promotional show to get people interested in either clubs to apply for membership.

The idea of the video is to show people what the clubs do for the community.

"We're very interested in getting new members and this is one way to show the people how we help those in need and our other activities," said Dave Landberg, an Elks member.

Special assembly day

The Assembly of Jehovah's Witnesses recently reached a milestone for two special reasons.

This was the first 'special assembly day,' a one-day annual event. And, this was the first time Eugene Rosam, a representative from the world headquarters in Brooklyn, New York, visited this circuit.

The one-day assembly was arranged around the theme 'Make sure of the more important things.' The program helped all 591 in attendance to understand that Christ Jesus was first concerned about God's kingdom and so should we be.

Rosam pointed out how important it is as we study the Bible to take notice of the things around us in the world, because the time for this system of government is coming to an end.

Hana Pinter showed by the scriptural example of the Gibeonites the urgent need to gain an accurate knowledge of the Bible and then act quickly upon it.

Four new persons were baptised in water at the assembly.

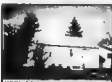

The final discourse helped all to realize the growth and orderly progression of Bible understanding was only possible because of Jehovah's spirit. Young and old alike were helped to appreciate the privilege of taking on Christ's yoke, being co-workers with God and serving with Jehovah's forward moving organization.

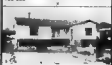

Spring games

They shoot...they score! With only two to a team it's difficult to play a real game, but not impossible. These four hockey stars say goodbye to winter street hockey and hello to spring ball hockey. With sticks and plywood as goal posts and the street as their arena...it's not the greatest but serves the purpose.

Battle River Association

Large portion of budget goes to promoting Zone 5

Close to 100 Battle River Tourist Association (BRTA) delegates met in the town of Daysland last month for their monthly meeting.

Members were advised of the recent announcement by Premier Getty that a $64-million package of post Olympic initiatives to promote Alberta over the next five years had been approved.

Association manager Sylvia Clements said the two programs directly affecting Battle River Country Zone 5 communities were the $30-million community tourism action program and the $20-million tourism marketing program.

In other business members moved to support a request from the Hampton Community Historical Society regarding putting in a water web and rest area.

It was agreed BRTA would part cipate in the Beauport trade fair in early May and in the Chaviv gun and hobby show. Other shows to be attended are Camrose, Stettler, Fort Saskatchewan, Sherwood Park, Leduc, Drumheller and Wetaskiwin.

A large portion of BRTA's budget goes toward promoting Battle River Country Zone 5 at these various shows. All 1988 literature has been printed including the "events calendar," so BRTA can do a good selling job at the various shows.

In dealing with resolutions three resolutions which BRTA had previously submitted to TIAALTA were reviewed.

The resolutions in question dealt with tour company regulations, control of spruce budworms and the promotion of Kanaskia Country outside of Alberta. All were ruled to be resubmitted, based on updated information being obtained, to the Tourism Industry Association of Alberta.

Hard decision

Contest winners named

The judge had an extremely difficult time selecting the winners in Sam's Easter colouring contest.

After viewing the 5th entries for almost an hour the conference being held in Banff in early April.

The subject of Sunday liquor sales came to the floor. Members moved to strongly oppose any steps towards Sunday liquor sales.

Also in connection with this issue, members took exception to a recent article printed in the Edmonton Journal which was headlined "Tourist association to lobby MLAs for approval of Sunday booze sales." Members moved to have a letter sent to the ombudsman of the Journal in disacting concern of BHTA regarding the false impression created by the headline.

In other business members were asked to take a stand against commercial winter fishing on Pigeon Lake. This resolution was tabled pending more research on the subject. It is expected a decision may be made on this issue at the April meeting.

The next meeting of the Battle River Tourist Association will be held in Stettler April 21.

winners were announced last Wednesday night.

Coli Drews, 5 1/2, took first place in the one to six year old age group. Christine Watson, 7, was the winner in the seven to 10 age category and 12 year old Sand, Smith won out in the 11 to 14 year old group.

The winners received an Easter package.

Funds needed

School taxes may increase for Leduc county residents

By Bill Inger
School taxes in towns and villages throughout Leduc County could rise dramatically if county school trustees can't secure additional funds from the provincial government.

The trustee request for an additional government grant was forwarded because of a funding gap created by the formation of the Improvement District 222 in December 1987.

A total of $333,493 in energy, power and pipeline revenues was lost to the new district. Without an equivalent grant to fill the gap, county of Leduc officials must increase the school levy to all municipalities.

"To requisition the col- lecting authorities as originally planned, we must have the incremental grant," said deputy county manager Gordon Handke.

the area now controlled by ID 222. There were previously 2,653 wells in the county but now 853 are under the jurisdiction of the ID.

"As those who represent towns and villages can see, as county assessment drops, it shifts the burden over to the urban municipalities," said board chairman Albert Klaps- tern.

During her report to the board, budget committee chairman and Thorby urban trustee Marjorie Billar ex- pressed concern about the ef- fect of falling revenue on the school system.

"I'm very upset and still feel things like this shouldn't happen in a democratic system. I feel the areas af- fected should not sit back. I know some people say it's too late but we can still register our concerns about what's happening out west. It's af- fecting us badly. I don't know how long we can sit and take this. I don't know what's com- ing next," she said.

Increases without grant
In Beaumont, facing an 8.1 per cent tax hike under the original county budget, taxes would increase 16.5 per cent. Taxes in Calmar, scheduled to drop 1.1 per cent, would increase 6.6 per cent. Taxes in the village of Breton would rise 17.5 per cent instead of the 8.9 per cent projected under original county budget figures.

Taxes in the village of New Sarepta would increase 12.2 per cent instead of a projected 4.0 per cent. Thorby residents also face a 14.2 per cent tax increase instead of the 5.8 per cent already pro- jected. The village of War- burg share in county school taxes would rise from 8.2 per cent under original projec- tions to 18.7 per cent.

Residents of the summer village of Golden Days would see taxes increase from a projected 7.4 per cent to 16 per cent. The summer village of Iliaska Beach faces a tax hike of 14.3 per cent instead of 5.9 per cent. Sundance Beach will also face a tax hike of 16.3 per cent without the incremental government grant. The original county budget pro- jected called for a 7.8 per cent increase in the summer villages' share of county school taxes.

County residents would face a school tax increase of 4.9 per cent without the grant. County officials originally budgeted for a 7.2 per cent increase with the original boundaries.

Although the county rate will increase on 4.9 per cent, Handke explained the lower rate will be spread over fewer taxpayers because of the loss of population in the west end.

The county budgeted for a seven per cent increase in supplementary requisitions for school purposes in 1988. Total county supplementary requisition is $6,777,700.

County school taxes could rise dramatically

If government doesn't approve the grant, all towns and villages within the county will face tax hikes of up to 17.5 per cent. Trustees already approved increases to the 1988 supplementary re- quisition totaling seven per cent across the county.

"Ultimately the equity formula will provide for lan- ding but there is a one-year lag during transition," said school superintendent Bob Marshall.

The tax hikes are based on a loss of power and pipeline assessment in parts of the county already inno- vated in the ID. No figures are available on the effect of further boundary ad- justments.

"This doesn't reflect the white reality we recently received," said Warburg ur- ban trustee Phyllis Schrick.

Handke explained about one quarter of the muni- cipalities in the county were located in

Launching of tourism package should spur industry

The recent announcement of a $64 million dollar tourism package is indeed a good news story.

At a recent Battle River Tourist Association meeting held in Daysland, association manager Sylvia Clements told members the package has two aims: to promote tourism inside the province and to attract international, tourism and economic opportunities.

Alberta communities will receive $40 million collectively to develop their own tourism attractions. Another $20 million will be shared on a 50/50 basis with the tourism industry on a marketing campaign which in east central Alberta will involve the Battle River Tourist Association.

Clements said the community money is based on shared per cent with a municipality providing 25 per cent and the government providing 75 per cent.

The funding is dependent on a municipality completing a community tourism action plan. For many Zone 5 communities that's good news because they've started their action plans and in a number of cases plans are in advanced stages.

BRTA has been strongly urging communities to get their action plans started. To date at least 40 Zone 5 communities have indicated their involvement with the program.

BRTA president Bryce Woodrow of Castor strongly urged communities to keep the ball rolling. "Let's be sure our area gets a good share of these development dollars," said Woodrow. Communities have an opportunity to build on their natural strengths. It's a chance for all communities, including the smallest to get involved, concluded Woodrow.

While involvement details are sketchy at this point, manager Clements said, the team tourism program which will see $20 million invested in the tourism industry is a program we've been lobbying for and one the association will be directly involved in.

Musical revue a major cultural attraction for town

Final rehearsals are now taking place for a style of entertainment never before attempted in Drayton Valley.

Broadway Tante will tour audiences this Saturday night to a series of hot Broadway songs performed by area residents.

The show gets underway at 7 p.m. at the Elks Hall and includes cocktails, buffet and

Attracting interest

a dance following the performances.

"It's something to further culture in Drayton Valley," said Linda Bennett, a cast member in charge of promotion.

Songs will involve selections from musicals such as Cats, Hair, A Chorus Line, Oklahoma, West Side Story

Little Shop of Horrors and Cabaret.

Directed by Lori Thompson and the extravaganza will feature performances by Bennett, Jason Colby, Lori Cooper, Shaun Murphy, Thayne and Terry Olson, Dennis Smith and Elvin Strand.

Bennett said one of the highlights of the evening will be a grand finale involving the Drayton Valley Players, Kinsmen and Kinetics — all of whom are sponsoring the two evenings of entertainment.

Both shows require semi-formal dress.

The evening begins with cocktails at 7 p.m. A dance with music provided by First Chorus Entertainment takes place at 9:30 p.m. with a buffet scheduled for 11 p.m.

Tickets are available from McGe's Mens Wear or from members of the three sponsoring organizations.

Bennett said everyone has been rehearsing about 12 hours a week since the beginning of February.

Beehive building plans

By Steve Fletcher
The planned expansion of the Beehive Workshop has sparked the interest of general contractors.

Workshop executive director Andy Durnan said last week that about 25 inquiries have so far been received.

Headline for bids to construct the 9,000 square foot facility is April 12.

Land near the Drayton Valley and District Health Complex has already been purchased in anticipation of the move tentatively set for May 1990.

Response from contractors "exceeds all expectations," said Durnan who would enlarge his board's estimated cost of the project over concerns that it may influence future bids.

The building will include a woodworking shop, bottle depot activity area and administrative offices and a room set aside for future expansion.

Durnan pointed out that expanding the Beehive Workshop (now to be called Beehive Enterprise) is a much needed exercise.

The new facility is designed to accommodate more clients, he said adding the new complex should have room for about 50 clients about 20 more than the current number.

Information obtained from social agencies show there are about 80 residents of the Drayton Valley area receiving assured income for the severely handicapped but are not receiving any services Durnan said.

HOW'S YOUR HEARING?

The Beltone Ode Canal Hearing Aid

Electronic hearing tests will be conducted at the Beltone Service Centre at the Drayton Valley Medical Centre 5223 50 Street on Thursday, April 7, 1988 from 10 a.m. to 11 p.m.

Anyone who has trouble hearing is welcome to have the tests. Many people with hearing problems don't need hearing aids, but only a professional hearing test like the one now being offered by Beltone can really tell for sure. Mrs. Maureen Alexander, Beltone Consultant, will be conducting the tests.

Early detection is important! Obtain the satisfaction and peace of mind that comes with knowing you've taken a big step forward on the road to better hearing.

SERVICE AND REPAIRS FOR ALL MAKES OF HEARING AIDS WITH OVER 3,300 BELTONE HEARING AID CENTRES ACROSS CANADA AND THE U.S.

County of Leduc looks into landfill sites

By Marilyn Tugland

Possible locations for a regional landfill site to serve the county of Leduc are being submitted to Alberta Environment for testing.

The process of finding a landfill site is in the third year but, assistant county manager Kevin Stone said it is still in the preliminary stages.

A committee representing Leduc County, Ireton, Thorshy, Warburg and four Pigeon Lake summer villages is involved in the search for a landfill site.

Capacity nearly exhausted

There is presently no regional site in the area and rural areas of the county and the summer villages are using a modified site at Mission Beach. However, it will be exhausted in a year, Stone said. Ireton and Warburg now use the landfill site in Drayton Valley while Thorshy uses the Leduc and district regional landfill site.

The committee is looking at Thorshy, Warburg and in all directions of those areas. They are limited in the east by the Leduc and district landfill site and in the west by the landfill site at Drayton Valley, Stone said.

A number of sites were rejected and a few are in the process of being tested.

Jim Lapp, engineering technologist with the waste management branch of Alberta Environment, said several factors determine whether an area is appropriate for a landfill site.

First the site is examined to determine if it meets public health restrictions. It must be located a certain distance away from people, Lapp said.

Then the site must pass hydrological tests. It is preferable if the soil is clay like so there will be little movement of liquid through it. Ground water in the area should be relatively deep so landfill is kept away from it.

Next, topography is taken into consideration. Rolling terrain or bedrock surfaces may be difficult to develop into a landfill site.

Transportation access is a further consideration as that will affect the cost of getting to the site.

Public reaction unknown

Stone said public reaction to a possible site is hard to determine. "Until an area is established and found physically capable of supporting a landfill site you don't know what public reaction will be."

It will be an advantage to be able to point to the success of the Leduc and district regional landfill site, he said.

Stacey Orlesky

This kickboxer gives a full-force kick to the bag during practice. There are no age restrictions in the kickboxing club; the youngest in the group is seven years old.

Craig Sleno and Trevor Walper spar for a minute-and-a-half, showing that kickboxing is a total physical sport. Members are in great physical health by the end of the season.

After a lengthy warm-up session the kickboxers have a good workout on the the bags demonstrating hand-foot coordination.

Dan Lyver (left) demonstrates the traditional maneuvers with the sala (type of sword). Linda Nero (right) performs the tempo-form demonstration.

A free evening workshop for those who are introducing or have just purchased a target serving machine. Topics include: choosing and preparing food, using the machine effectively, program features, supplies, and other methods to enable you to make the best use of your machine. There is still a charge for those participants with no machine. A major benefit of joining a service is that you don't have to pay for the machine.

Cogs of universities

Professors very different people

In some of my previous articles I have mentioned my professors only in passing.

I decided, therefore, to describe these individuals without whom there would not be any university lessons.

From my very first experience with professors, I realized they are very different people—different from school teachers who are molding young minds trying to improve the students in their care! Professors are here to instruct and if you don't learn it is not their fault.

You are in university because you want to learn; the professor is only the vessel for you to learn through.

I have noticed though this theory isn't always correct.

Take for example, my physics teacher. He is a very nice man or seems to be but he tells jokes no one but himself gets and he likes to show this by laughing into his microphone. That's not so bad but he also likes to chew gum into the mike and breathes into it.

The breathing is the worst—you think you are in a wind tunnel with gale force winds coming at you from all sides, in stress. Oh well it sure wakes you up at 8 a.m.

Another one I noticed to have a quirk, is my English professor. She seems very "liberated" and shows this in class by her responses to the males and in the materials being covered. One girl in our class, also "liberated," gets together with the professor during class to discuss their views, leaving the rest of us to look on in awe.

My philosophy professor is also a little different. He has such bounce in his step it is really a downer to see him so happy all the time. He also has a nervous habit of wearing an elastic band around our wrist and snapping it when he is lecturing. It does get a little annoying.

My art history professor is another interesting specimen. She is said to crack one joke a year. I was waiting to hear her only joke, but with our class she seemed to be on a roll. She even announced, using stamps from art history, that she was pregnant. She is now on maternity leave.

But don't get the wrong idea. I'm not saying my professors are bad. But I am saying they're human and quite approachable. If ever I have trouble with an English paper, I just go and talk to my prof. The last time I was to see her, we talked about my paper for about 10 minutes and then spent 20 minutes chatting and talking about English.

As another example, in my philosophy class I ran into a big snag on my mid term. I went to look at the key, and I ran into my prof. We went over the exam, I found where I went wrong for better, where I went right and he said if I have any troubles to come and see him and we'll get them straightened out.

Job search workshop April 5

Parkland Continuing Education Council is sponsoring a spring job search workshop.

It will be held April 5 and 12 from 9:30 to 9:00 p.m. in the Sherfield Civic Centre in Spruce Grove.

During the first evening instructors from the Alberta Career Centre will teach participants how to prepare or revise a resume, how to complete covering letters and how to fill out application forms for maximum effect.

The second evening will focus on the all important interview.

Participants will be given a chance to practice their interview skills in a non-threatening situation and will learn how to prepare for even money and interview questions, according to Bill Gray explained.

Tips on how to follow up the interview will also be discussed.

This course will be of interest to people who are looking to change jobs, who are currently unemployed, who may have been out of the work force for some time, and even for students who are seeking summer employment opportunities.

The cost of the workshop is $5. Pre-registration is requested. Phone Gray at 563-2211 ext. 2 for further information.

COMMENT

Take off the training wheel

The first steps here

Ledcor mayor Oscar Klak and his advisors are training participants to shorten the line of city groups begging for handouts.

Such a policy is desperately needed. City council is besieged with requests for individual tax waivers, rental waivers and cash handouts.

For a while Ledcor exerted efforts to check to themselves each time a request was submitted. The laughs are now catching in the throats — one or two requests are presented at every council meeting and it's no longer funny.

In formulating a policy that will leave some community organizations out in the cold, Ledcor politicians are leaving themselves open to criticism. Most of these charitable groups organize projects and events and return profits to the city. It will be difficult for them to understand why their petition or plea is refused while other submissions are approved.

However, the council chamber is not a charity chamber with unlimited resources. Its time some community groups removed the training wheels and learned to go it alone, allowing less established organizations access to assistance that will get them rolling.

— Ledcor Representative

Who has found whom?

A boy of five years wandered away from his home up the foothills. His parents feared the worst. The boy was lost in the dense forest. Even worse, it was late in fall and winter was upon them.

The parents called and looked for Bobby, but by rightfall there was no sign of him. Neighbors and friends and forest rangers all came and took up the search.

It started to snow all night the snow laid its blanket, but no Bobby could be found. The next morning the sun came out and the storm ceased.

The weary father decided to go back to the house for a warm cup of coffee before he continued his search. When he was within a few hundred yards of the house at the edge of the forest a deer he kicked against what seemed to be a log lying in his path.

From
Pastor's Pen

By Pastor H. Heinemann
Emmaus Lutheran Church

The snow flew off the log and the small boy awakened by the parring sat up from under his snow blanket and said, "Oh, Daddy, I've found you at last!"

Now, who found whom?

We human beings have an inherent saying, "So-and-so found the Lord." But the Lord has never been lost!

We talk about the search for God. He has asked us to search the scriptures and seek His will, but when it comes to salvation it is God who reaches out for us. "The Son of man has come to seek and save that which was lost" (Luke 19:10). Again Jesus said, "I have come that you might have life."

Now, tell me: Who finds whom?

Women's Institute

Members of the Drayton Valley Women's Institute held their most recent meeting at the home of Agnes Regenwetter.

The president reported all the Easter ham coffee cards had been sold.

Members are planning on attending the constituency conference in Wabamun April 20.

Plans are underway to present plans of three pins to those women who have been members from 10 to 30 years. This will be done by Marilee Kosik of Wabamun at a pot luck supper in May. Karen Gustafson gave an informative talk on the history of the Drayton Valley WI that was formed in the year 1954.

The month's meeting will be held at the home of Edna Hahm where the program will feature how to do soil sculpture.

Solicitations in the form of invoices a concern of BBM

The Better Business Bureau is receiving inquiries from companies that are mailing solicitations in the form of invoices.

A solicitation invoice is sent to a firm in the hopes it will inadvertently be paid. The solicitation invoices state they are for some form of advertising, usually an unknown telex or trade directory. It is possible this directory may never be published.

Most solicitation invoices are misleading; in that they look like an invoice. There is usually a disclaimer stating it is not a true invoice, but rather a solicitation letter. This is a solicitation for the order of services and not a bill, invoice or statement of account due.

You are under no obligation to make any payment on account of this offer unless you accept this offer.

There are regulations on this disclaimer as to the size and placement of it. If this disclaimer, or one like it, appears on the solicitation invoice, there is nothing that can be done legally to prevent the company from mailing out such solicitations.

Currently a Downsview Ontario company Classified Directory Publishers Inc. is mailing solicitation invoices which are particularly effective as they use a look alike yellow pages logo.

It is important that a business appoint one person to very carefully inspect all invoices and solicitations, especially if they are received in the mail. In doing so only the true bills will get paid.

If your company receives any solicitation invoices you should follow this procedure:

Write on the envelope the date the material was received and sign your name. Be sure all original solicitation material is placed in the envelope.

Send all solicitation material to your Better Business Bureau and it will be forwarded to the proper authorities.

Remember call your Better Business Bureau if you receive a solicitation invoice that you are not sure of.

Car-buying tips on ACCESS television

Collect data set a budget and narrow your choices. Those are the car-buying steps recommended by AMA's consumer information department.

The first step is to watch the AMA sponsored television series "Motorweek 88" every Sunday at 4:30 p.m. on ACCESS network. After watching the vehicle road tests and automotive news, members can call AMA's consumer information hotline (1-800-222-6576 Edmonton 474-8714) during business hours for the additional information.

Road tests, consumer reports, fuel consumption ratings, price lists and more—all "free for the asking" to AMA members.

Motorweek program:
April 10, 4:30 p.m.

Featured roadtest: Buick Reatta

A television exclusive, a complete roadtest of Buick's luxury sports car, the most electronically advanced two seat sports machine yet developed. Plus a look at auto show dream cars, a pair of tough viewers' carer problems, and the latest in owner-related motor news.

April 17, 4:30 p.m.
Featured roadtest — Audi 90
Test the latest European-style sedan, the Audi 90. Plus a report on the design and marketing changes brought about by the increasing number of women buying cars, a look at a solar powered car, the Sunrayer, dependable car care advice, and motor news.

If you won't quit smoking, the least you can do is donate the price of a couple of cartons of cigarettes, so that if you need us, we'll be ready for you.

ATTENTION PARENTS
ADVANCE REGISTRATION
KINDERGARTEN

County of Parkland elementary schools are accepting registrations of children who will be starting kindergarten in September, 1988 during the week of

April 11 - 15, 1988

Please make every effort to complete your child's registration prior to April 15, 1988. Early registration helps the County to make better preparations for your child's education.

Please register your child at the school which he/she will attend for grade 1. If you are unsure of your designated attendance area please contact the Transportation Department at 963-2231, ext. 290/291.

A child may be registered for kindergarten if he/she has attained five (5) years of age on or before February 28, 1989. Parents of beginning pupils are required to present proof of their child's age (i.e. birth certificate, Alberta Health Care card). Rural parents are requested to bring their legal land description.

If further information is required relating to registration or the program please contact the school which your child will

Pre-break concert draws a crowd

Eldorado school was the site of a spring concert recently. The concert, playing to a packed house of proud parents in the school's gymnasium, included renditions of songs from students from all grades.

School attendance figures up slightly

Attendance at the four County of Parkland schools in Drayton Valley was up slightly in January over the previous month.

Figures supplied by the county show 1,631 students attending the four schools in January compared to 1,625 the previous month.

Attendance at three schools was up in January. Evergreen Elementary recorded a five pupil increase to 307, while both Eldorado and H.W. Pickup increased by three. Eldorado jumped to 417 students and H.W. Pickup moved to 361.

Frank Maddock High saw a decrease in their attendance figures dropping to 457 from December's 462.

The county reported 10,300 students at the end of January compared to 10,512 in September of 1987.

$50 million campaign will promote Alberta worldwide

Major post-Olympic initiatives by Alberta Tourism have just been announced to build on the opportunity provided by the Winter Games.

Two in province initiatives, the community tourism action program and the team tourism marketing program, will allocate $50 million dollars to tourism development and marketing over the next five years. An international initiative, the Alberta Tourism advertising campaign, already in progress, will promote Alberta worldwide.

Community tourism plan ($30 million in incentives over next five years) - involving local communities and the private sector, the program will provide shared assistance (75 per cent provincial, 25 per cent local) to support local community tourism initiatives or develop tourism strategies which will bolster local and regional economies over the next five years.

As incorporated municipality is eligible for funding under the program once it has prepared and endorsed a community tourism action plan.

Team tourism marketing program ($20 million over five years) - joint government-private sector marketing program to help industry market tourism destinations on a regional basis in cooperation with their 14 tourism zones. Shared assistance (50 per cent provincial, 50 per cent local).

Alberta tourism marketing campaign (approx. $2.5 million) - continuation of the television ad campaign which ran during the Olympics, concentrating on California and the Pacific Northwest states until May 1 and in central Canada during April and May. Supplemented by a print media campaign budgeted at $940,000.

In addition the Take an Alberta Break program will be renewed and expanded to adjacent provinces and states.

The Drayton Valley constituency's approximate share of these new tourism initiatives amounts to $2,389,950.

I can be reached through my Edmonton office during the week at 422-8158 (call toll free through Zenith 223333). My Drayton Valley constituency office is open Mondays through Thursdays; the number there is 542-3355. My residence phone number is 682-3758.

Tourism Week

Award program

In recognition of National Tourism Week, May 16-22, the Battle River Tourist Association (BRTA) will again launch a three month Customer Service Award program at a cost of about $5,000. The program will run June, July and August.

The purpose of the program is to encourage frontline employees to offer service of excellence to all customers.

The program categories include businesses involved in food services; retail firms and service station outlets.

Any BRTA member business employing individuals in the above categories may participate in the 1988 award program.

A substantial cash prize and an engraved plaque will be awarded to three winners in each category. Also the firm who employs the winner will be recognized by BRTA.

Winners will be guests at the BRTA annual meeting to be held in October 1988.

Any member wishing to participate may pick up the award package at the BRTA in food services; retail firms and service station outlets, meeting in Stettler.
